7.00pm to approx 9.15pm

Britten Theatre, Royal College of Music,

Once again, the UK-EU Societies are delighted to present a concert showcasing outstanding young musicians and singers selected by the Royal College of Music who will perform a mainly classical programme to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of HM The Queen.

For those who have not visited the venue before, the Britten Theatre is part of the Royal College of Music, although it has its own entrance. It is situated behind the Royal Albert Hall. It was designed by Sir Hugh Casson and named after Benjamin Britten, a former student of the College, and audiences appreciate its simple elegance, responsive acoustics and intimate tiered auditorium.

An interval glass of wine or soft drink is included in the ticket price. Tickets are £20 for Stalls and Dress Circle, £10 for Upper Circle.
